Preface.

WITH the publication of two volumes of the "Episcopal Registers of the Diocese of Exeter," under the editorship of Archdeacon Randolph, the importance of this class of Church record has been clearly established; and, following the excellent example he has set, the Hampshire Record Society has decided to issue the "Episcopal Registers of the Diocese of Winchester," under the joint editorship of the Dean of Winchester and of Mr. Francis J. Baigent; while the Cumberland and Westmorland Antiquarian Society have in preparation the "Pre-Reformation Episcopal Registers of Carlisle." It is earnestly to be hoped that equally capable scholars may be found to edit the registers of some of the other dioceses, of which an interesting summary will be found in Bishop Stubbs' "Episcopal Succession in England" (x.-xii.), where the bulk of these registers is described as being "occupied with the records of institutions to benefices, acts of Consistory Courts, and lists of persons ordained, to which in many instances important wills are annexed."

It is with "institutions to benefices" since the Reformation that the present work is to be exclusively concerned; and where the Bishop's Certificates of institution fail the Composition-books have been laid under contribution.

Here it may be pertinent to explain the significance of Bishops' Certificates and Composition-books. The Bishop of each diocese was required to certify periodically to the office of First-fruits in the Court of Exchequer the particulars of all institutions made in his diocese, in order that those livings which were chargeable with First-fruits should be compounded for under 26 Hen. VIII., cap. iii., sec. 2 (Ecton, 609). It follows, therefore, that where the Bishops' Certificates are missing, the Composition-books supply the names of the incumbents of those livings which were chargeable with First-fruits and at a date closely approximate to their actual institutions.

Dugdale in his "MONASTICON," and Tanner in his "NOTITIA," have written the history of the monastic houses, but to Le Neve we are indebted for his "FASTI," which appeared in 1716, containing lists of the chief dignitaries of the Church of England. This important work was, however, preceded in 1708 by "NEWCOURT'S REPERTORIUM," the most comprehensive and able work of its kind, "being an ecclesiastical parochial history of the Diocese of London," and including the first printed lists of the patrons and incumbents of the several parish churches in any diocese. For a century this remained the first attempt to record in print the names of the lesser ecclesiastical dignitaries. Sir Thomas Phillipps followed in 1820 with a folio volume of the "Institutions for Wiltshire," but, alas! unindexed; and, in our own time, Mr. Weaver has shown the way by the publication of an excellent volume of "Somersetshire Incumbents;" while we are promised the "Bedfordshire Incumbents" by Messrs. Cobbe and Blaydes at the end of the year.

The present important Work of Reference, which is the outcome of annotating "Alumni Oxonienses," has been specially compiled from the original records. When completed it will form, in ordinary parlance, "a Clergy List" dating from the Reformation, giving not merely the names of incumbents, but also the dates of their institutions or appointments, and will include not only those names of Cathedral dignitaries which appear in Le Neve, but also a very large number of Cathedral dignitaries that do not appear in that work.

As the volume now issued comprises the institutions of the beneficed clergy from 1800 to 1840, it will obviously form an invaluable supplement to the published clergy lists, which only cover the period subsequent to 1841. It is certain therefore that this unique work must be highly prized by the biographical and literary student, and will at once take high rank amongst reference books of its class.

As this undertaking (which takes the place of a proposed "INSTITUTIONES CLERICORUM") is necessarily of limited interest, and, speaking generally, will commend itself chiefly to the greater libraries, public and private—especially those of ecclesiastical or educational corporations—I do most earnestly ask for the support of their librarians and owners, so that the complete publication of this magnum opus may not only be assured, but that the next section may be of wider range; commencing with the Reformation, and ending with the eighteenth century, all arranged under one alphabet, so as to minimize the labour of reference. (Vide specimen pages vii. and viii.) It will manifestly be for the student himself rightly to assign the several institutions attributed to various incumbents bearing the same name, and this, I may be allowed to point out, may in doubtful cases be satisfactorily accomplished by taking as a start the ordination lists at the various diocesan registries, which I trust may ere long be printed either separately or with the institutions.

Another source of identification will be discovered in what, at first sight, may rather seem a source of confusion, namely, the institution of an incumbent to a benefice on more than one occasion. This point will more readily be realized by reference to the specimen page opposite, where it will be noticed that Edward Abbot is instituted as vicar of Galby in 1673 and 1689. These entries refer to one and the same vicar, who probably could not while holding Galby be instituted to Billesdon, but who could while holding Billesdon be instituted to Galby; he therefore technically resigns Galby, and is shortly afterwards re-instituted. The double institution thus proves the holder of both livings to have been the same. From the parochial section of the Index, also, the means of identification can be obtained by observing the dates of the institution of a man's successor—indeed, this is the raison d'être for the arrangement I have adopted.

It has been remarked that I am the only man nowadays who has the courage to compile and issue these works of reference single-handed, and I may remind my supporters how altered are the circumstances under which this class of work now sees the light of day. A century and a half ago such undertakings were promptly supported by the nobility, gentry, and book-collectors; now we witness the wholesale dispersion of those grand libraries, while the wealthier classes of the present day, preferring fox coverts to book-covers, decline to fill the breach thus created. The public libraries alone remain, and owing to the enormous number of annual publications, and the apathy concerning the unexciting book of reference (though of permanent and increasing value), it is elbowed out of the purchase list, even by the great majority of American libraries, to whom we should suppose these old England lists and registers would be positively indispensable; so that including the assistance of the few remaining book-buyers, it is difficult to gather even a hundred subscribers from all quarters of the globe.

I renew my appeal, therefore, to the librarians, public and private, to accord their support to my efforts in the publication of these reference books; entailing as they do on the compiler protracted and arduous toil. Warned by the fate of "Collectanea" and many other genealogical projects, I prefer to print a limited edition (at a necessarily higher price) of works of smaller range, so that whatever is published may, under all circumstances, be complete in itself, and afford a reasonable prospect of providing for, at least, the expense of printing.
